We also collect some of this information from other motorsport participants with whom you interact, such as your employer, officials, your previous employers, other Drivers and Competitors and from broadcasters and the media. This is especially true where we carry out our integrity and disciplinary role.

As part of our integrity activities, we also actively gather intelligence from relevant sources, including members of the public and publicly available sources, including with the assistance of our background screening providers. We also collect data from anti-doping organisations (such as the World Anti-Doping Agency and National Anti-Doping Organisations) and our appointed anti-doping service provider.

Where you choose to involve a third party, for example, your employer, a representative, lawyer or relative, we will receive and share data with this person or organisation.

Why we collect, use and store this personal data

We are usually required to have a lawful basis to process your data. We explain each of these legal bases below. We also set out the purposes for which we process your data. For each purpose, we explain the lawful basis for that processing, the processing operations that we carry out and the categories of data that we process.

Legal bases relied on by the FIA for motorsport related processing

Consent – sometimes we ask for your consent to use your data.

Contract – if we have an agreement in place with you, we may process your data where it is necessary for us to meet our obligations or enforce our rights under the contract.

Legitimate interest – we can process your data when this is necessary for us to achieve a legitimate business purpose, or where this is necessary for someone else to achieve their legitimate purpose. We explain below what interests we, or others, are trying to achieve when we process your data. Where we process personal data on the basis of a legitimate interest, we consider what the impact of the processing will be on affected individuals and determine whether those individuals' interests outweigh our interests in the processing taking place.

Legal obligation – we have obligations to comply with legal and regulatory requirements under various applicable laws. In certain cases, we have to use your data to meet these obligations.

Vital interests – in exceptional circumstances, we may rely on the need to protect your vital interests to process certain data, particularly sharing information as needed with medical professionals for safety purposes.

Where we process your special category data – such as information relating to your health, biometric data that might identify you, your ethnicity, your religion, your sex life or sexual orientation, your trade union membership or your political opinions – we usually require a further lawful basis. These are as follows:

Explicit consent – we may ask you to consent to use this data;

Medical diagnosis/preventative and occupation medicine – we will only process data for medical purposes where required by law, or under the supervision of a health professional who is subject to an obligation of professional secrecy;

Substantial public interest, as set out in law – the law may make special provision for our processing, for example in relation to health and safety requirements;

Establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims – we are entitled to process special category data where this is necessary to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights;

Scientific research, as permitted by law – we will use your special category data for research where we can demonstrate that we meet legal requirements and have applied appropriate safeguards;

Vital interest – again, in exceptional circumstances, we rely on the need to protect your vital interests to process your special category data.

For certain types of processing, the FIA may be exempt from the requirement to have a lawful basis. This is notably the case where the FIA processes personal data to allow academic or artistic expression. The FIA has explained in this notice where this is relevant to its motorsport related processing.

FIA purposes of processing

The FIA processes your data for the following purposes:

Administering and managing FIA Events, including selecting and authorising Competitors, manufacturers and suppliers, issuing motorsport licences and categorising Drivers, and associated health assessment (legitimate interests, healthcare processing, explicit consent)

We collect and use your personal data so that we can carry out the FIA's role as a FIA Events organiser, and as a governing body providing administrative assistance and management of FIA authorized Events . This reflects our legitimate interest in administering and managing these FIA Events, and the legitimate interest of other motorsport participants in ensuring these FIA authorized Events can take place. This includes the collection of personal data to carry out due diligence in the selection and authorisation of Competitors, suppliers and manufacturers, to issue motorsport licences and categorise drivers, to issue media and other access accreditations, to allow Competitors and Drivers to register for specific FIA Events, to appoint and manage relevant officials and to provide administrative support to FIA Events such as issuing additional accreditation, liaising with third parties such as venues, Promoters or Organisers. This also includes our processing relating to checks of your fitness to attend an event, and arranging your travel and accommodation where required. It may also involve the taking of certain payments where required for entry or registration for a particular FIA Events or for obtaining a particular categorisation or accreditation.

Where we collect any special category data, particularly safety data collected in accordance with the role of the FIA's medical teams and medical delegates set out in the International Sporting Code, we rely upon our need to assess your health under the supervision of a healthcare professional where appropriate safeguards are in place. Where we receive your health data in connection with your fitness to attend an event, particularly as this relates to rules connected to Covid-19 protocols, we will typically process this to ensure the health and safety of other participants at these events.

In some cases, if you provide us with special category data to provide administrative or other assistance, we seek your explicit consent to process this information to the extent required by applicable data protection laws. Failure to provide this information, or withdrawing your consent, may result in the revoking of a licence if this would mean you are not eligible for the relevant licence, or may mean that the FIA is unable to provide appropriate assistance.

We use your identification data, contact details, travel related data, motorsport participation data, motorsport performance data, integrity and conduct data, financial data and safety data for this purpose.

We share your information with Organisers, our officials, with appropriate authorities involved in the organisation of a FIA Events, with Promoters and with our suppliers for example our background screening providers who assist with assessment of potential participants and IT service providers who host relevant platforms, our professional advisors, and travel agencies involved in our administrative role. Where you are a Driver seeking a licence, we share information relating to your application with your team and representatives and your ASN. We also publish certain information, such as the names and categories of categorised Drivers and details of individuals who have had motorsport licences suspended. We also share information with law enforcement authorities if they have specific questions regarding the administration and management of FIA Events.

Carry out the FIA's governance, integrity and disciplinary role (legitimate interests, establishing, exercising and defending legal claims, substantial public interest, explicit consent)

We process personal data to carry out the FIA's governance role in motorsport, including the collection and processing of information to confirm and enforce compliance with the FIA's Statutes, International Sporting Code and the FIA's Sporting, Technical and Financial Regulations, Judicial and Disciplinary Rules, and any other FIA rules and regulations that may apply from time to time. This includes the collection of information directly from you, and from third parties with whom you may interact in motorsport, such as your ASN, your employer or team or your relatives. We also receive information from a wider variety of third-party sources where this provides relevant information or intelligence, including the media, members of the public and other motorsport participants.

We will use the data to carry out any necessary disciplinary and other legal processes, including appropriate investigations into possible breaches of our rules and regulations, to take decisions and enforce our decisions, and to publish details of the integrity decisions we take, including details of any bans we may impose. This processing is done to pursue our legitimate interest in maintaining the integrity of our sport, and the legitimate interest of other competitors to ensure motorsport is fair and free from improper influence or cheating.

In some cases, where we collect special category data for this purpose, we may rely on an additional lawful basis to the extent required by applicable data protection laws. Some of our integrity processing relies on specific local laws in the substantial public interest, for example to justify the processing of anti-doping data. We are also entitled to process special category data where we are seeking to establish, exercise and defend legal claims in the enforcement of our rules and regulations, including our Anti-Doping Regulations. However, in some cases we may need to seek your explicit consent. Where we rely on this consent, you may refuse or withdraw this consent at any time, but this may limit your ability to participate in motorsport if this undermines our ability to ensure compliance with our regulations.

The information we use for this purpose is your identification data, your contact details, your motorsport participation data, your motorsport performance data and your integrity and conduct data. It will also include your financial data where disclosure is required under the FIA's Financial Regulations.

The FIA may in some circumstances seek personal data relating to diversity, inclusion and disability for monitoring purposes, based always on your consent. It may also collect equality, diversity and inclusion data for the purposes of providing inclusion related grants, including distribution of the Disabled Drivers Grants and similar initiatives operated by the FIA from time to time.

The information we use for this purposes is your equality, diversity and inclusion data. This will always be collected with your consent. Where it is possible to ensure the anonymisation of your data for these purposes, the FIA will take such steps.

We will not share your identifiable equality, diversity and inclusion data with third party controllers without your consent. We may share your information with our third-party suppliers to the extent that they are assisting us with relevant activities, such as administering a Disabled Driver Grant request. Any information used for diversity monitoring is likely to be shared with a specialist company that advises us on diversity, or that assists us with ensuring that responses are appropriately anonymised.

Business interests (legitimate interests, establishment, exercise and defence of legal claims)

We have a legitimate interest in protecting our business interests and legal rights, including, use in connection with legal claims, compliance, regulatory, auditing, investigative and disciplinary purposes and ethics and compliance reporting requirements. Where we process your special category data for these purposes, we will typically rely upon our need to establish, exercise or defend ourselves from legal claims.

We may process any of the types of data mentioned in this notice for these purposes.

This information will be shared with our advisors and suppliers who provide our IT systems and storage. We share information with legal and other advisers if there are investigations or potential claims. We also disclose information of this nature in connection with legal processes or litigation or to other relevant regulators, other governing bodies, law enforcement bodies or to teams and other employers where appropriate.

We may process any of the types of data mentioned in this notice for these purposes.

This information will be shared as required to comply with law, including with law enforcement or public authorities as required.

Withdrawing consent

Wherever we rely on your consent, including explicit consent, you will always be able to withdraw that consent. If you withdraw consent, this may in some cases impact on your ability to access certain services or events as explained above.

How is personal data shared, where and when?

Your data may be shared with a variety of third parties as described above. Personal data is also shared as necessary within the FIA and within the FIA group, including with our sporting, legal, privacy and IT departments. Your personal data will be shared with the FIA's third-party service providers, who will process it on behalf of the FIA for the purposes identified above. This may include the providers of insurance services, IT and technology services, survey providers and event organisers. We also share information with our professional advisers.

Personal data may be shared with government authorities and/or law enforcement officials if required for the purposes above, if mandated by law or if required for the legal protection of our legitimate interests in compliance with applicable laws.

For a number of purposes set out above, the data sharing described is likely to result in the sharing of your data with third parties located outside your country; in principle, this may be any country in the world. Where information is transferred outside the EEA, Switzerland or the UK, and where this is to a third party in a country that is not to a country considered adequate under Swiss, EU or UK law, data is usually adequately protected by approved standard contractual clauses, or a vendor's Processor Binding Corporate Rules. In some limited circumstances our transfers may be exempt from adequacy obligations, where transfers are for important reasons of public interest, such as sharing of data for anti-doping purposes. Where we transfer on the basis of an adequacy mechanism, a copy of the relevant mechanism can be provided for your review on request by contacting us using the details set out below.

What rights do I have?

You have the right to ask us for a copy of your personal data; to correct, delete or restrict (stop any active) processing of your personal data; and to obtain the personal data you provide to us for a contract or with your consent in a structured, machine-readable format.

In addition, you can object to the processing of your personal data in some circumstances (in particular, where we don't have to process the data to meet a contractual or other legal requirement, or where we are using the data for direct marketing).

These rights may be limited, for example if fulfilling your request would reveal personal data about another person, where it would infringe the rights of a third party (including our rights) or if you ask us to delete information which we are required by law to keep or have compelling legitimate interests in keeping. Relevant exemptions are included in European, Swiss and UK data protection laws and under applicable member state laws. We will inform you of relevant exemptions we rely upon when responding to any request you make.

To exercise any of these rights, you can contact us – or our Data Protection Officer – using the details set out below. If you have unresolved concerns, you have the right to complain to an EU data protection authority where you live,

We will always inform you where information you provide is mandatory. Information that is provided in order to comply with the FIA's various rules and regulations listed above is mandatory. Failure to provide this information breach our regulations.
